Dear Leverett family,

Welcome to Leverett House, your home on the Charles River! We hope your summer was a great change of pace, and brings you back recharged and energized for the year ahead. We're excited about getting to know you as individuals, and we hope to share time with you around the House and during the various events throughout the year.

Our mission is to provide an atmosphere of warmth and acceptance in a culturally rich home, providing relief from the pressures of academia, and so enhancing your ability to focus on why you are here at Harvard. In nearly everything we do, from athletics to music to scholarship, a relaxed mind is an effective mind, and we're here to provide a supportive environment that will enable you to be creative and productive as you discover who you are and who you will become. Diverse communities are strong communities, and our philosophy is to foster an appreciation of the diverse perspectives, backgrounds, and interests that we all bring to the House.

The group of buildings that comprise Leverett House are vessels of our community, and we are very fortunate to share historic McKinlock Hall, our mid-century Towers and Library, and DeWolfe, set among green spaces with beautiful views of the river. We would like to show our collective appreciation for these surroundings—that you can be proud to call your House.

We are very lucky to have an extraordinary team of tutors and staff who enable our living and learning experience. Our wish is to foster memories that will be meaningful for each of us now and in the years ahead, and so we look forward to being part of your lives and having you in ours. Please remember that we are here for you.

Warmest regards,

Brian and Irina
