Bandit Begins Dissertation on Worldview of a Corgi

Bandit, the beloved House corgi, has decided he will enlighten his fellow Leverites with at least a sixty-page dissertation on the world from his point of view. Speaking through a translator, he is quoted as saying that he “will do his best to give the students exactly that for which they have asked over the past six years.” He mentions he “wants to give the students another historical perspective of Harvard and Leverett within Harvard that cannot be provided simply by the corgi-cam attached to [his] head during the Open House events.”

When asked about the relative timeline of his dissertation’s release, he is very non-committal. “The idea was inspired by students here writing their senior theses on topics that interested them, but I don’t want to be as committed to a timeline as some of these students are in their work. Part of the revelation of my work will be showing how odd it is for a corgi to experience the relative highs and lows of students as they work against these onerous deadlines.” Bandit did promise the HT team the ability to review his dissertation before its release in this paper.

Upcoming IMs:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Game</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>10/12</td>
<td>7:45pm</td>
<td>Soccer v. Cabot</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10/13</td>
<td>6:30pm</td>
<td>B Volleyball v. Pfoho</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10/15</td>
<td>2:45pm</td>
<td>River Run</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10/18</td>
<td>7:30pm</td>
<td>Soccer v. Dudley</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10/23</td>
<td>12pm</td>
<td>Tennis v. Adams</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Not Just Sherry Hour
10/13, 5pm
Faculty Deans’ Residence
Harvard-Cambridge Fellowship Committee Information Session
10/13, 7pm
Library Theater
Make Samosas w/ the Leverett Culinary Soc
10/14, 3pm
Rabbit Hole; Email tifeng@mba2017.hbs.edu
Daffodil Planting & Snacks
10/16, 1pm
Towers Courtyard
Uppsala University Symphony Ensemble Concert
10/17, 8pm
JCR
Lev Yoga
10/18, 7pm
After hearing news of Bandit’s desire to write a dissertation on his world view, Rosie the Australian Shepherd was aghast. “To think that anyone would be interested in reading about the worldview of a corgi is just insane”, says Rosie through an interpreter. “I remember when they did a piece on the news a while ago about the Queen of England and her affinity for corgis...since then, Bandit has been pretty full of himself.” When asked whether there was any chance Bandit’s desire to write a dissertation springs from pure academic interest, Rosie seemed wary. “He is a nice dog, and he is a nice living companion here at Leverett house, but you know how he can be sometimes. He’s not the most academic type.”

With this being said, Rosie does not want to be thought of as an un-academic dog. “I really don’t want people to think I look down on those who choose to write theses or anything...it really is a great accomplishment for those who have a genuine academic interest in the material. It’s just that I don’t believe Bandit has that interest, and I think he is just doing it for the shock value—made worse by the mesmerizing media that follows his every word.” When asked whether the Hare Today contributed to Bandit’s oversized ego in her opinion, Rosie would neither confirm nor deny her implicit claim.

Inspired by Bandit’s Move, Rosie Refuses to Write Dissertation in Protest

---

Mystery Quote:

“Look the other way, gentlemen... Sorry, I forgot you are comrade citizens now, not gentlemen.”

---

Last week’s quote:

“All the great things are simple, and many can be expressed in a single word: freedom, justice, honor, duty, mercy, hope.”

Winston Churchill

---

DID YOU KNOW?

Whether by the river or in the Rabbit Run, running can help to decrease stress and improve your health.

Plus, you can help Lev earn IM points by running with Harvard on the Move!

RUN:

- meet @ the MAC Sundays @ 10am
- Wednesdays @ 5:15pm

WALK:

- @ John Harvard Tuesdays @ 12:30pm

Plus, Dean Khurana will join runners on Wed Nov 9 @ 5:15pm.
#RunningWithRakesh

---

An academic should always be corgi-nized.