Interview with Chief Regarding New Master’s Residence

First, as a teaser, what are your thoughts on the renovated Masters Residence? We are glad to be back for events. The Happy Hare has worked well for not-just-sherry-hour, but we had to postpone the student-faculty dinner until we could have the reception there because it just would not have worked.

For the Holiday Open House, what are some of the things that returning students should look for that’s changed in the renovation? Is there anything particularly special that students should look for?

I am sorry that it is going to be too cold to open up the terrace. We could not make it larger, but it is really beautiful. Other things should look very much the same, except that are some things that are not back yet. An example is the wallpaper in the hall which was the original and really beautiful. We couldn’t replace it so we are having it remade! One of the other amusing things is the chrome on the original bathroom fixtures. The renovation folks didn’t like the way they looked so they sent them out to be re-chromed --- to the Harley-Davidson Factory!

As an update, how does the timeline for the rest of the McKinlock Project look? Are there any other special events like early openings that we can look forward to the rest of the year? Where will things like Sherry Hour and future Open Houses be?

We hope to have open houses, dinner receptions, old library lunch receptions, and Conway concerts in the Masters Residence next semester. NJSH will probably stay in the Happy Hare.
