House Events

- Tuesday, 10/30, 8:30: Master’s Open House
- Thursday, 11/1, 5:00: Not Just Sherry Hour
- Thursday, 11/1, 5:30-7: Community Night
- Thursday, 11/1, 9:00: House Auction

Boston Sports

- Bye week

- T 10/30, 8pm @ Miami Heat (TNT)
- F 11/2, 7:30pm @ Bucks
- S 11/3, 7pm @ Wizards

- World Series Champs

Mystery Movie Quote

“When there’s no more room in Hell, the dead will walk the Earth.”

Last week’s quote was from Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban.

ARE TODAY

The Halloween Issue

1. Lamont basement- there are no windows--WHY ARE THERE NO WINDOWS. Just when you thought Lamont couldn’t get any scarier, you find this gem. It feels less like a library and more like a storage room for the medical records of the criminally insane.

2. OCS Seminar Room- after the animated film Anastasia came out in 1997, I went through a short phase during which I was very interested in the real-life Romanov family. The OCS Seminar Room reminds me of a photograph I saw of the room in which the Romanovs were assassinated. The room is sparse, claustrophobic, and every time I’m down there someone seems to be telling me that my career goals are unrealistic and unattainable. It’s the perfect setting for my worst nightmare.

3. Science Center basement bathroom- the people in here never look like students, the ground is always wet, and all of the stalls are weirdly missing hooks. I don’t know what this means, but it frightens me.

4. UHS- I have a friend who went to UHS and was told that he had HIV--without actually being tested. He does not, in fact, have HIV. The nurse just seemed to have a hunch that, based on his appearance/how she was feeling that day/some other scientific measure, it was likely that he did. I know someone else who went to UHS with a sore throat and was told that she might have oral gonorrhea and that her boyfriend is probably cheating on her. As it turns out, she just had strep. It’s too bad that the Garment District doesn’t sell costumes for “Misdiagnosed STD” or “Insensitive Healthcare Provider.”

5. Pusey- I have literally screamed while walking around Pusey 3. I was leaving the elevator, turned a corner, and bumped into someone whom I instinctively sensed had been waiting there all day to kill me. I immediately assume that any other human being I encounter in the depths of Widener Library is carrying an axe inside their book bag. It doesn’t help that whenever I’m in Pusey 3, I’m usually there for a scary reason, like looking for a book on torture, or doing thesis research.

by Philip

Hilary Hayssen • Philip de Sa e Silva • Didar Kul-Mukhammed • Sofia Tancredi • Adam Ziemba

VOLUME 12, ISSUE 8 10.29.2012
Quiz: What Should I Be for Halloween?

Don’t know what to be this year? We’ve got you covered.

1. You want to dress up:
   a. for a party
   b. for class/work
   c. forever
   d. you don’t.

2. On Friday night, you’re:
   a. contemplating space-time
   b. late for a date
   c. snacking in the dhall
   d. not sleeping, waiting

3. You don’t leave home without:
   a. darkness
   b. a watch
   c. a snack
   d. you don’t leave home.

Mostly As: Frank
Materials needed: unfortunate orthodontia, a bullet hole through your eye.

Mostly Bs: The White Rabbit
Materials needed: Your British friend’s tweed jacket, a watch, and your midterm anxiety.

Mostly Cs: Trix Rabbit
Materials needed: your Lev ears, some cereal, and an uncomfortable amount of energy.

Mostly Ds: the Rabbit of Caerbannog
Materials needed: A cute fluffy disguise to hide your bloodthirsty nature.