Midterm Season Could Always Be Worse

With the middle of the semester approaching and all the stresses that come with it, it can be hard to keep it all in perspective. However, we’re here to help you always look on the bright side of life, so just remember: midterm season could always be worse.

You have: Two papers and a midterm
You could have: Two papers and a midterm, with lions released in Lamont at random.

You have: A Spanish Test
But you could have: The teacher writes the test in Portuguese, claiming “you can extrapolate from class”

You have: A paper analyzing the causes of the major revolutions in European history
But you could have: A project recreating the major revolutions in European history.

You have: Job interviews
But you could have: Job interrogations

You have: Two tests and a cold brought on by pulling all-nighters to study
But you could have: Two tests and the Black Plague, brought on by living in the Middle Ages

You have: An engineering project and two math problem sets.
But you could have: The same workload, but you live in Dunster
Dear Crabby,

If you were a food, what kind of food would you be?

Hollis ’17

Dear Hollis ’17

Your question is in poor taste. If you were an annoying freshman, what question would you ask me? That one.

Yours, Crabby

Dear Crabby,

My blockmate was a great friend last year, but he makes a pretty bad roommate. The room is always a mess, and he invites people over when I’m trying to do homework. What should I do?

Mather ’16

Dear Mather 16’

Go back in time. Evaluate your friends better.

And while you’re there, stop yourself from sending me this letter. I’ll owe you one.

Yours, Crabby

Dear Crabby,

I’m a junior in Winthrop, and I’ve been feeling pretty trapped in the Harvard Bubble. Where should I go to get off of campus for a little while?

Sincerely, Winthrop ’15

Dear Winthrop ‘15

I can see why you would want to get away from Winthrop. It doesn’t really matter where you go, because everyone in the Boston area is going to dislike you for being a pretentious snob anyway. That being said, you should go somewhere- anywhere, really. Just get off campus. Bring your friends. There are too many of you people around here all time.

Yours, Crabby

Dear Crabby,

If you were a food, what kind of food would you be?

Hollis ’17

Dear Hollis ’17

Your question is in poor taste. If you were an annoying freshman, what question would you ask me? That one.

Yours, Crabby

Dear Crabby,

My blockmate was a great friend last year, but he makes a pretty bad roommate. The room is always a mess, and he invites people over when I’m trying to do homework. What should I do?

Mather ’16

Dear Mather 16’

Go back in time. Evaluate your friends better.

And while you’re there, stop yourself from sending me this letter. I’ll owe you one.

Yours, Crabby

Movie Quote

“I’m in a glass case of emotion!”

Last Week’s Quote was from: The Great Gatsby

[“Well, I don’t care. He gives large parties, and I like large parties - they’re so intimate. Small parties, there isn’t any privacy.”]

Riddle

There is a castle and inside the castle there are three cups. The first cup is full, the second cup is full, and the third cup is half full. Who is king of the castle?

Last week’s riddle solution: Envelope

[What starts with E and ends with E but only contains one letter?]