DOCTORS FIND 12 NAILS IN MAN’S SKULL
US doctors found 12 nails stuck in the skull of a man who came in complaining of a headache.

Medics believe the man fired the two-inch nails into his head himself in a bizarre suicide bid - but somehow survived.

"Incredibly he's made a full recovery," said Dr Alexander West, the neurosurgeon who led the team that pulled out the nails.

"This guy was blessed in some way. I mean, it's incredible."

The 2ins nails were not originally visible in the 33-year-old's head when he sought help in hospital in Portland, Oregon.

But x-rays revealed six nails clustered between his right eye and ear, two below his right ear and four on the left side of his head.

The nails came close to major blood vessels and the brain stem but did not pierce them.

Officials believe the unnamed man was suicidal and high on methamphetamine when he fired the nails into his head one by one with a nail gun.

UKRAINE'S EX-PM CALLS FOR MORE SEX
Former Ukrainian prime minister Julia Timoshenko says her countrymen and women are not having enough sex.

Speaking at an election address for her new political party, she urged the crowd to start working on reversing the country's demographic decline.

Mrs Timoshenko's daughter, Eugenia, 25, last year married former rock singer and market trader Sean Carr, 36, from Yorkshire, after a holiday romance.

When asked if her daughter was following her advice, she declined to comment, saying it was a "private matter".

Earlier, she said: "I urge all Ukrainians to take immediate action to help raise population numbers. Go straight home and work on it."

The billionaire former businesswoman shot to fame as one of the faces of the Orange Revolution in the Ukraine in 2004.
