Procrastinator’s Guide to Reading Period

(Hypothetically) Monday: Acknowledge that you have work due. Not only that, but a big assignment. But nothing you haven’t overcome before, right? You’ll be fine. You have bigger fish to fry at the moment, like... what do you do anyway?

(Hypothetically) Tuesday: Actually, you know, four days isn’t nearly as far away as you thought. Oh no! You feel the panic that can only come from impending doom slowly set over you. Wouldn’t it be a disaster if you just didn’t get this done in time? Spend the rest of the day in the fetal position, crying. Pro-tip: End the day by doing something fun and non-work related to relax.

(Hypothetically) Wednesday: Your resolve sets in. You will get this done! You will not be conquered by some silly assignment! You set a plan to work the entire day, but mysteriously, all hell breaks loose in the rest of your life. Spend the rest of the day dealing with the other dramas and work that comes up.

(Hypothetically) Thursday: Okay, you’re serious this time. You are getting this thing done! Things continue to fall to pieces in other areas as more work pops up, but you ignore it now; that can all wait until Saturday (Hypothetically). Now, you are in the zone, and you need to keep that focus.

(Hypothetically) Friday: Your assignment is due mid-day. Not that that matters, as you pulled an all-nighter working. Time has now lost all meaning, locked in your room to maintain focus. Is it 4 AM? 8 AM? 8 PM? Are you hungry? Sleepy? Who can tell any more. All you can do in the hours leading up to the deadline is work feverishly, likely making dozens of typos or wording syntactically things that don’t making sense. You’ll catch that all in the editing phase, though.

(Hypothetically) The Deadline: Okay, so there was no editing phase. Whatever. It was probably fine. You panic in the minutes leading up to the absolute last minute because of some small detail you didn’t count on (Who was I supposed to email? Why isn’t the site working? Why has my printer allied itself with Mephistopheles?). But in the end, you persevere.

You may now collapse. You now feel only a single emotion: relief. It is over.

---

House Events

- 4/28 8:30 pm Master’s Open House
- 4/29 5:30 pm Murdock Thesis inner
- 4/30 6:00 pm Pre-Career Dinner
- 5/1 11:00 am Rising Rabbit Room Pick
- 5/1 5:00 pm Southwestern Barbeque
- 5/1 9:00 pm Spring Formal
- 5/8 10:30 pm Donut Bash

Mystery Movie Quote

“I feel the need... the need for speed!”

Last Week’s Quote was from The Godfather.

[“If not, it’s all out war, we go to the mattresses.”]
Leverett House Committee cordially invites you to

LUXE

Leverett’s Spring Formal
Thursday, May 1st
9pm-1am

Leverett Towers Courtyard

Tickets are available for purchase in the dining hall at lunch and dinner with cash, card, or venmo. They are SEF eligible as well!
Get them soon before they run out!

Don’t miss out on:

- Performances by Semi-Serious and Big Party Orchestra
- Hors d'oeuvres including a bruschetta bar, coconut chicken, warm pecan & cranberry brie, pakora, and more!
- Desserts including a chocolate dipping station and dozens of cookies
- TJ’s sparkling juices courtesy of Chief
- Open bar (21+) with champagne cocktails, two beer options, and wine
- A step and repeat photo station with a photographer
- And MORE!

RIDDLE

What has a head yet it never weeps, has a bed but never sleeps, can run but can not walk, and has a bank but not a cent to its name?